

University of Nevada, Las Vegas Capacity Building

The Nevada Minority Health and Equity Coalition (NMHEC), housed within UNLV, has worked in conjunction with NOMHE on a variety of activities related to the Health Disparities Capacity Building Initiative. This initiative supports the DEI project within DHHS and aims to increase the ability of community-based organizations to address health disparities in Nevada.

As a part of this initiative, NMHEC informed the development of NOMHE's Health Equity Action Plan and media campaign, created a health advocacy webpage, developed A Step-by-Step Guide to Community Based Participatory Research (CBPR), and hosted a series of workshops on a variety of topics. All of these activities supported capacity building to address health disparities in Nevada. Additional information on the workshops and CBPR guide can be found in the DHHS DEI Policy, Procedure, and Training Manual for Health Disparities.
